LEGION MEETS
At the regular meeting of the Holly Coffee Post 68 of the American Legion of Kentucky, held at the courthouse at West Liberty on Saturday afternoon, March 27, the following members were present: Lynn B. Wells, Holly Wright, Earl May, A. H. Williams, Jesse Gevedon, Bill Davis, H. R. Stacy, John Holt, Albert K. Moore, commander of the 10th district, of Salsersville, was present and gave a very timely and inspirational talk on membership.
Arrangements were made at the meeting for the completion of the honor roll for those in the armed forces of our country. This roll should be completed in the next few days and we know that our citizens will be proud of this tribute to our boys.
Arrangements were also made to have a shipment of 1,000 packages of cigars sent to the boys in the armed forces in foreign countries. These will be sent to them with the compliments of the business and professional people of West Liberty and Morgan county.
When sent in shipments of this kind they are tax free and can be sent for 5 cents a package. Arrangements were also made at this meeting to put on a membership drive. We would be glad if all veterans of World War I and all veterans of World War II who have been discharged would take care of their dues before this drive begins and save us the trouble of contacting them.

J. BLAINE NICKELL, Adjutant

RED CROSS REPORT OVER THE TOP!

That's the American spirit! We are right behind our boys in service by giving our dollars to assure their care by the Red Cross on the fighting front.

Have you done your part? Several school districts have not reported their collections. March 31 was the closing date but we will give you until Saturday of this week, April 3, to send in your share. A detailed report of contributions will appear in next week's paper.

Watch our dollars grow! Our boys will keep fit. The axis we'll overthrow While they do their bit!

COUNTY BUSINESS
To the people of Morgan county: I wish to advise you that your magistrates have been very careful and painstaking, and have lived within the budget during their administration, and there is every reason to believe that we will end the year without exceeding the budget, that is, without spending more money than we have taken in. This is something that has not happened in many years of Morgan county history, and I want to personally thank the magistrates for their cooperation on all matters.

The prices of everything have increased and it is much harder to live in the budget when 18-70 of every dollar that is paid into the county treasury goes to pay on the $215,500 bonded indebtedness, but by reducing the interest on the bonds from 5% to 4% and making our credit good we will be able to call and pay off $3,000 in bonds at the end of the fiscal year, leaving a balance of county bonds of $212,500 outstanding.

In three out of four of the homes in Morgan county we have someone in the military service, many of whom are overseas, and on the battlefield living in fox-holes and facing the enemy, and a big majority of the people want everything possible raised and sent to the boys at the front to keep them well fed, while the others at home work to produce for the survival of this great country in the bitterest battle for its existence so we may all keep the American way of life.

The Morgan fiscal court for several years has turned its rural highway money over to and worked with WPA, which was put out of existence by the president, effective March 31, 1943, and has taken a large sum of the truck tax money to operate a referral agency until practically all the bridges are destroyed and gone or need flooring, so it is now time that we use these funds for the people at home.

We have something like 350 relief clients, that is people certified for commodities. That is just 1-50 of the population of the county, and if we continue to use our money for the 1 person out of 50 at the expense of the other 49 we will still have to go without roads and bridges to a large extent, and to keep this the county must furnish a certifying agent, commodity warehouse workers, rent a building, offices for the certifying agent, utilities and all the stamps and paper bags for the distribution of the commodities.

At the April term of the Morgan fiscal court, they will be asked to decide on this so knowing how you have to pay heavy taxes, that we need every dollar possible to repair bridges and culverts, pay interest on our bonds, and run the government, I will vote against the future date of relief, and ask all the citizens to let's settle down to work, and do all we can to help win the war and to try and get Morgan county in a better financial condition. I am your county judge,

RATION NEWS
Retailer's Bulletin No. 21 has been mailed to all retailers other than those who have signed for them in person in the office. These bulletins show the flat ceiling price on all cut of pork which are to be observed and complied with accordingly in all stores and by anyone selling pork including any pork. Take this bulletin up in your store where it can be seen by all consumers.

Retailers were also mailed Registration forms 1302 which are to be answered in full as instructed on the back of the form, signed and returned after the 10th of April. This is an important registration.

You may receive a point chart for red stamps (meat and fats rationing) at your local postoffice. There have been some changes on the processed foods value of stamps for some items. This chart showing changes for the month of April is on the same page with the points for meats and fats.

Dry, edible beans require only 4 points to the pound of beans. Retailers may purchase meat and fats thru April 10 without surrendering points. On April 11 all sales require stamps. This will give merchants opportunity to stock up their stores with lards and meats without the surrender of stamps.

Wholesalers, also, for the first two weeks of the meat and fats rationing will purchase these foods point-free. May 1—close of business: when retailers and wholesalers will find their point inventory of their business.

WELLS
Luther Kiser Wells was born Oct. 17, 1898, departed this life March 28, 1943. The son of Willie B. and Zoda Wells, he was born and reared on upper Stacy Fork. He endeared himself to his family and friends and to all whom he came in contact with his friendly smiles and winsome personality.

He was always faithful in attendance to his church and Sunday school. There are no doubts in the minds of his family and friends that he is now safe in the arms of Jesus.

Those surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie B. Wells, five brothers, Elmer and Hurtle Wells, Ashland, Clyde Wells, Morehead, Herbert Wells, West Liberty, Mitchell Wells, United States army; two sisters, Mrs. Marvin Nickel, Osgood, Ind., and Mrs. Ackman Harold, Charleston, South Carolina.

GOT ENOUGH
To the Editor of The Courier-Journal: Once in a while we all get enough of something and have to blow up. I'm tired of "damn" and "hell" presidents, and "damn" and "hell" sons of "damn" and "hell" congressmen, "damn" and "hell" movie stars, "damn" and "hell" newspapermen, column writers, and editors.

I've tolerated it until I despise the inferiority which produces it. When I read Elliott Roosevelt's "damn and hell" letter, I knew what he would say if he could get the rest of it in print. At the rate we're going, it won't be long until he will not have to abbreviate his swearing, and the Courier-Journal will do its part to propagate the wicked stuff.

When a man cusses he admits that he is inferior. Not only that, he is inferior. He is afraid his words won't be believed or taken for their full value. It's like the bark of a dog trying to bluff the "bigger" before it gets him. It's a bluff to make up for what a man is not, and that goes for the whole newspaper cussin' lot. The best example of what I am saying is in the case of the Apostle Peter. He didn't belong to Christ, and he knew he was lying all the time. Knowing his inferior stuff, he set the air blue with a string of cuss words to convince the folk who wouldn't otherwise believe him.

Our modern society does it all the time because usually it is inferior and knows it.—Euell H. Keesee of Morehead in the Louisville Courier Journal.

Three Sons in Service
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Canine of Woodbend were in town Monday, and while here were accompanied by their three sons in service and all three get the Courier.

Reported by Mrs. Stanley Dennis.
March 29—Rev. Woodrow Manning, Roger Wells, and Mrs. Queen Manning are visiting relatives in Middletown, Ohio, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dennis of this place and Wanted House in West Liberty visited Tuesday their mother, Mrs. Willie Haney, at St. Joseph hospital at Lexington. Mrs. Haney has been there since March 16 and underwent a serious operation

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Congress Moves to Defer Farm Workers; Climax of Tunisia Campaign Approaches As Allies Close In on Rommel's Forces; Manpower Shortage Grows More Critical

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lining the deck of a U. S. submarine as it docks at Pearl Harbor after a successful raid on the Japanese base on Makin Island, these marine raiders are ready for the comforts of shore for a while. The raiders, transported to the island and back aboard American submarines, wiped out the garrison and all enemy installations there.

FARM LABOR:

Deferment Act Passed

Congress demonstrated unmistakably that it meant business in dealing with the farm labor shortage.

Evidence of this determination was found in the senate's action in passing legislation to defer all essential farm workers from military service. The measure which had required house approval would direct draft boards to defer men employed substantially full-time in production of essential foods and fibers. Although Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson had strenuously opposed blanket farm deferments, sponsors of the legislation contended such action was necessary.

The house meanwhile had moved to combat the farm labor shortage in another direction, by passing a bill appropriating $261,000,000 to recruit and train 3,500,000 men and women as a "land army."

SHOWDOWN:

Looms in Tunisia

Evidence had continued to mount that the Allies were preparing a concerted drive that would bring the North African campaign to a climax.

As the ring around the Axis defenders of coastal Tunisia was tightened by the Allied command, two developments spelled progress toward the final showdown.

One was the upsurge of offensive action by American forces under Lieut. Gen. George S. ("Blood and Guts") Patton which continued on after the recapture of Gafsa and El Gueitar in central Tunisia and apparently had as its ultimate goal the coastal city of Gabes. Replacing Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall on this front, General Patton brought with him the reputation of being one of the most offensive-minded generals of the army.

Another development of high significance was the drive by General Montgomery's British Eighth army against Marshal Rommel's Mareth line positions in southeastern Tunisia. Characteristically, tight-lipped Montgomery had issued no communications concerning his early moves; first reports of the offensive had come from German sources.

Together, these two developments indicated that an Allied squeeze play was under way against Rommel's army.

LESS GASOLINE:

For East Coast

While the gasoline ration for "A" book holders in eastern states was cut from 3 to 1½ gallons per week, these motorists were given the opportunity of using the gasoline as they pleased, for the ban on pleasure driving was removed.

In making public the reduction, the Office of Price Administration, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown, announced that "A"-book holding industrial workers who motor to their jobs would be allowed supplemental gasoline.

Halving of the basic ration was made necessary, according to a statement by Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, because only 333,000 barrels of gasoline daily could be made available for East coast civilian and industrial use during April.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

DETROIT: New tires using steel instead of fabric cord at an estimated saving of 15 per cent in rubber were examined by Rubber Director William M. Jeffers on a tour of a tire factory here. Dr. Sidney M. Caldwell, scientist of the firm, said only two plies of steel were necessary, compared with 10 of cotton or nylon, making possible a thin casing.

LONDON: More than 30,000 Germans were among the approximately 75,000 Axis casualties in the battle beginning at El Alamein, Egypt, on October 23 and lasting until November 5. There were likewise 7,200 German prisoners, according to a statement issued by War Secretary James Grigg. Grigg said British casualties in the battle were 13,000, or 18 per cent of Axis losses.

RUSSIA:

See-Saw Offensive

The see-saw character of the warfare on the Russian front had continued with Soviet offensives pushing on without interruption toward the goals of Smolensk and Staraya Russa, while German counter-offensives were striking with increasing power in the Kharkov sector.

The main force of the Russian drive toward Smolensk had been concentrated on a stretch of the Vyazma-Smolensk railroad. The Reds were reported as having captured scores of settlements south of Bely. Much of the fighting was reported west of the Dnieper river headwaters.

The German offensive further south had ranged from Kharkov to Kursk, with epic tank battles and a struggle for supremacy in the air. A German communique had reported that "Enemy forces encircled southeast of Kharkov have been annihilated with the exception of small remnants." Far northwest of Kharkov and on a hattle line extending down into the Dnieper river basin, the Germans were reported concentrating their reserves and tanks on narrow sectors still held by the Russians.

UNITY:

For French Factions

Three months of unpublicized preparation had been necessary for the action that was to culminate in a meeting between Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles DeGaulle and bridge once and for all the chasm that had separated the French North African regime and the Fighting French.

When Gen. Giraud had announced that everything reminiscent of Vichy rule was to be thrown overboard and then had followed with decisive decrees translating words into action, the day of French unity dawned.

Happily received by the DeGaulle lists, was Giraud's decrees nullifying all Vichy laws discriminating against Jews, restricting the activities of labor unions and banning Freemasonry.

Even before the Giraud decrees and the resignation from his government of ex-Vichy officials, Fighting French leaders meeting in London rejoiced that events in North Africa had taken a more favorable turn and that Giraud's invitation to DeGaulle for a conference would meet a friendly reception.

Further evidence of the increasing unity of French interests was the action of French Guiana's government in breaking away from Vichy control and joining forces with General Giraud. This South American possession had previously been under control of Axis-minded Adm. Georges Robert, high commissioner at Martinique.

POLITICS:

Banned for OWI

Accused by administration critics of propaganda boosting President Roosevelt for a fourth term, personnel of the Office of War Information were cautioned by Director Elmer Davis.

ELMER DAVIS

mer Davis to refrain from partisan political activity.

Conceding that the OWI had indulged in propaganda on behalf of the administration in an article in the bureau's overseas magazine, "Victory," Davis denied that there was any other evidence to support the charges.

"Our sole function is to contribute to winning the war," Davis pointed out in a memorandum to OWI's 3,000 employees. "We must take care that the utility of this office is not impaired by any action of ours, whatever injury to it may be attempted by others."

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Japs Show Concern

Even as Premier Hideki Tojo was warning the Japs that "the war situation is becoming more serious," Secretary of Navy Frank Knox declared that Japan has lost 1,887,000 tons of shipping, or one-third of her tonnage at the beginning of the war. "The journey to victory is just beginning," Knox, however cautioned.

While Japan was thus exhibiting signs of concern over the war's trend, American warplanes continued to blast at the westward movement of enemy troops and supplies to the islands above Australia, attacking Jap coastal vessels off western Dutch New Guinea.

Further to the south and east Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air forces kept up a steady pounding on the big Japanese base at Rabaul in New Britain. Other United Nations air men attacked enemy outposts in the Kai Islands between Australia and New Guinea.

Results Justify Expenses Of Overseas Propaganda

Axis Has Employed Elaborate Means to Get Its Views Across to Neutral Nations; U. S. Must Use Press and Radio.

By BAUKHAGE

Washington, D. C.

The other day, Elmer Davis, head of the Office of War Information, held a press conference. He opened it with the remark that we were witnessing an Uncle Tom's Cabin without the Simon Legree. I didn't get the significance of the remark until Davis explained that Representative Tabor, who charged Mr. Davis with using the Office of War Information to distribute propaganda for a fourth term, had been invited to share the conference but had other duties.

Obviously, the purpose of the meeting was to show how the money for the publication of propaganda was being spent and a good deal of time was taken up on comparative costs of British, American and Axis propaganda efforts. If the OWI carries out present plans, it will be spending at the rate of 45 millions of dollars by the end of the year. Britain, with its separate ministry of information, is spending much more than we are—Germany probably four or five times as much. That's a rough estimate. But the figures didn't interest me so much and I'll tell you why. I had come to the conference a little early and had been studying the array of literature—arranged on two tables—the American and the Axis propaganda material. There were hand-made publications like the German magazines "Signal," "Berlin-Rome-Tokyo," and Japan's "Nippon."

"Signal" costs 75 cents a copy to produce—the art work in all of them must have "Esquire" and "Fortune" envious. There were tiny pamphlets—these were American—you could slip into your hat band. The OWI's masterpiece is "Victory" which was the target of congressional attack—it isn't so bad in comparison with the expensive Axis magazines but it costs only 35 cents to produce.

Three things struck me as a result of the conference: first, if there is an even chance of obtaining the results expected, the investment is not worth quibbling about; second, since Davis admits that material got into the Roosevelt sketch which should not have and won't again, we either ought to take Davis' judgment or else fire him. Thirdly, the public hasn't had a chance to know what the propaganda is all about and the criticism of one phase of it utterly distorts the general picture of the function, purpose and value of the OWI effort.

In the first place, these publications under consideration are not for our troops abroad or our people at home—though I believe they ought to be given some circulation here, so that their function is understood, at least when it is compatible with the confidential nature of some of the means of distribution in enemy countries.

It is accepted as the duty and function for one political party to do all it can to discredit the leaders of the other party—according to the rules of the game of politics—but, as Davis quoted the Baltimore Sun, you have to exploit your personalities. People mean a lot more than mere ideas when you are trying to make an impression. Roosevelt can be played up as a powerful symbol to people abroad without affecting the political situation at home. That was done effectively in the case of Woodrow Wilson in the last war, his picture was worshiped all over Europe, as the symbol of the leader of a nation coming to liberate them. But when he came home, he couldn't sell his program to the American people.

"Self Allied Cause"

I tried to find out what the objective of the OWI was, whether it could show any results.

Purpose one is counter-attack. We know what German propaganda has done, first in softening countries about to be invaded; second, to keep neutrals leaning Nazi-ward. OWI wants to fight fire with fire.

The second purpose is the same as the first and more of it—not merely to nullify enemy effort but to sell the prospect the idea that America can win and is winning the war and that American victory will be a greater selfish advantage to the prospect than a Nazi victory would be.

How about results? That is pretty hard to reduce to statistics or even concrete statements. We know some Axis propaganda leaflets in their hands. We know that leaflets dropped over occupied countries or pamphlets smuggled in have started people talking. OWI has reports to this effect. They say that this means that the idea has been spread that America is in touch with the people within the occupied territory.

We know that some of these pamphlets have been photostated or copied in others and given further distribution. It was stated that these copies or excerpts from them have even been circulated in prison camps.

We know that from four to six clandestine newspapers are made up chiefly from Allied propaganda material.

Of course, by no means all of the OWI propaganda is spread through publications. In fact, the radio broadcasts represent the greater part of the expenditure.

OWI is confident that this radio propaganda is not wasted as it is admitted that the listening audience is being cut down as short-wave sets are seized or worn out and the depreciation is heavy. On the other hand, it is known that the radio broadcasts are repeated—by word of mouth and in clandestine pamphlets and newspapers.

The chief evidence that propaganda is reaching into Germany comes from two sources: first, the speeches of Goebbels and other German leaders who warn against black listening—warning not to believe the foreign propaganda—and, second, the records of trials of persons arrested for this black listening.

Effective in Turkey

It is stated that American propaganda has been effective in Turkey because Turks believe it whereas they have caught the Axis in too many lies. Since publications printed in Turkish are still forbidden to be sent into Turkey, the printing has to be done there or the material sent in in French or English.

In Spain, it is said that in spite of strong handicaps—that is, the power of the Falangist party which is openly pro-Axis—American propaganda has curtailed this power, has swung many people from a pro-Axis to a pro-Ally attitude. The persecution of the Catholic church in Germany has been used effectively in Spain.

Of course, this isn't the whole story of propaganda. All is fair in love and war and some pretty precarious tight-rope walking is sometimes done—witness democracy's tete-a-tete with Darlan which history will probably disclose was less a desertion of democratic political methods than waiving of the Queensberry rules of gallant combat. We can't expect the Allies to show their hands to the enemy and there is no use disturbing the squeamish by revealing the possible although not entirely immaculate condition which might arise from grappling with an especially noisome enemy.

What Davis did not go into at this meeting was the question of enemy propaganda directed toward us. That is a very delicate matter and sometimes governments are willing to give the enemy credit for the circulation of certain sentiments expressed by people who are just mad at their own public servants and are exercising the inherent right of grouching.

As I said before, I am much more interested in whether the propaganda job we are doing is effective. As to getting in puffs for the party in power, that is up to the party out of power to stop but one of the inescapable advantages of being an "in" in wartime is that you can squelch some opposition on the ground of patriotism. On the other hand, there was never an administration yet that wasn't thrown out after a war so there is some compensation—furthermore, the party of the opposition doesn't share the blame for the mistakes.

Now that Governor Bricker has announced that he expects the Ohio delegation will support him as a favorite son candidate for the presidency, politics will be raising its lovely head in every headline.

rench 'Reunion' Isle

Has Interesting History

Reunion's history is as varied as its topography. Discovered in 1545 by a Portuguese, Mascarenhas, the island bore his name until 1642 when it was claimed for France and named Bourbon Island. Colonization began in 1664 at St. Paul bay under the direction of the French East India company. In 1763 the island reverted to the French government. When the Revolutionists came to power in France they called the island "Reunion," an idea that endured only to the rise of Napoleon. "Le Bonaparte" then became the fashion. The English seized the island in 1810, and gave it back five years later. "Reunion" again merged as the island's official name. Reunion has been administered as a department of France through a resident governor and consul general. Three delegates, one to the French senate, two to the house of deputies, traveled the 7,500 miles to Paris to represent the island's interests in the French parliament. Their constituents are, for the most part, Frenchmen, British, Indians, Chinese, Africans, and natives of Madagascar. To Reunion, France has sometimes sent political exiles, notably Abd el Krim, famed Rif leader, in 1926.

Cassowaries Largest Of

Borneo's Odd Birds

Largest of the many strange birds of Borneo are the cassowaries, relatives of the ostrich and emu. Characteristic features are possession of horny casques and neck wattles. Some six species of these flightless birds of the genus Casuarus occur in Australia, Borneo and neighboring islands. They inhabit the forests and, while preferring a fruit, vegetable and rodent diet, have strong digestions, for, in common with the ostrich, they will eat almost anything.

All are about five feet high, with a black, horny-plated casque on the head, writes Edith M. Laing in Nature Magazine. Stout gray legs, capable of high speed, can deliver a bone-breaking kick and a long, horny, spoked claw of the inner toe can mortally lacerate an enemy. Would-be molesters had better beware, too, of the spine-like quills with which the rudimentary wings are equipped.

U. S. Steel Reports 1942 Production

28 Per Cent Greater Than World War I Peak

United States Steel Corporation's Annual Report for 1942, reporting attainment of a steel output of 12,000,000 tons, a 28 per cent increase over the peak year of World War I, has just been released. The report shows that the company's production in 1942 was 28 per cent greater than in 1918, the year of the greatest steel production in the history of the company. The report also shows that the company's production in 1942 was 10 per cent greater than in 1941, the year of the greatest steel production in the history of the company. Pyramid Priests of Egypt

The most obvious means to measure the length of the sun-indicated year was to build pyramids sloped to an angle of the sun's elevation at noon, on the first day of the Egyptian spring season (our March 1). The pyramid's pointed shadow on the meridian floor line indicated the moment at noon, when the shortest shadow ended 365-day years on February 28, and their three hundred and sixty-sixth day as leap day on February 29, in then secretly kept leap years.

PHYSICAL CHECK-UPS

One of the gratifying things about this war, as compared with the last, is the diligent search made by medical officers to make sure that men entering the army are fit not only physically but mentally and emotionally also. This was not as well or as completely done in the last war, partly because there was not a full history of the man available and X-rays of chest and blood tests were not generally done.

I have personal knowledge of how we passed men as physically fit because heart, lungs and other organs were normal who later developed disturbances of various organs during war service. Had we had a knowledge of their emotional makeup, which we could have gained to some extent by further questioning, there would not have been so many cases of disordered heart action, stomach and intestinal disturbances, and some behavior symptoms during and after the war.

In the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine Drs. W. Sargent and E. Slater draw attention to the commonness of loss of memory as a symptom among soldiers in wartime, and suggest that in civil life this same symptom is more easily overlooked. Among a thousand military patients admitted to a neurosis center they found 141 in whom loss of memory was an outstanding symptom aside from those whose loss of memory was due to some real damage to the brain. Loss of memory was more common and more severe in those who had undergone severe stress on active service.

Many of these same individuals would have little lapses in memory in civil life because of the instability or unsteadiness of their emotional makeup. These men are as brave as their comrades, but are more high strung or emotional and their nervous system is more readily affected.

Aside from behavior or emotional symptoms stress of war affects the body organs also and as mentioned above disordered heart action, stomach ulcer and colitis—inflammation of the lower bowel—often result among soldiers for which they are rightly granted a pension.

Other improvements over our physical examinations in the last war are blood tests for disease, tests of the blood group to which the soldier belongs, and X-rays of lungs.

Overcoming Pin Worms

One of the distressing ailments of children, and often of adults also, is pin worms, also called seatworms and thread-worms. The pin worm is a small worm which looks like a small piece of white thread, found mostly in lowest part of the bowel.

The symptoms are itchings, usually worse at night disturbing the sleep, burning pain, feeling that bowels want to move, frequent desire to urinate, and loss of appetite.

For many years the treatment was by the use of small pills or tablets containing santonin and calomel. However, as the worms are situated in rectum—injections of an infusion of quassia chips has been the routine treatment for years in many children's hospitals. Two ounces of quassia chips are placed in a quart of water and the water allowed to boil down to a pint. The quassia chips are strained off and the pint of water is used as an enema. This is repeated every morning for six days by which time the pin worms have been destroyed.

An easier method of treatment for child and mother, or nurse, has been the recent use of gentian violet in tablet form, the amount being in proportion to the age of the child. The tablets have a heavy covering or coating which prevents them being dissolved until they reach the lower part of small intestine and upper part of large intestine. Gentian violet is usually given every day for five days, then a rest of one day and then every day for another five days.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Drs. Max J. Miller and Della Allen, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, report their findings with still another treatment, phenothiazine, the dosage being in proportion to the age of the child. In one experiment, 50 children were given one gram of the drug every day for six, seven and eight days according to age; 64 per cent were cleared of the pin worm infection.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What foods contain mineral salts?
A.—Foods containing mineral salts are meat and green vegetables.
Q.—Are lemons effective in the reduction of weight? Have they a good effect on the eyes?
A.—Lemons should be good for any overweight individual, as there is often an acidosis present. As to reducing weight, if water and sugar are used, it would not be of help. Would not help eyesight in any way.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Seed-bearing pods high up in rubber trees when ripe go off with an audible pop. The pods, about the size of a goose egg, contain formations of gas which explode when ripe and throw the seed as far as 100 feet.

The French call rubber cutchouso from an Indian term meaning "weeping tree."

Ninety per cent of roadside flats that plague our drivers can be avoided. Checking air pressure while tires are cool, before inflating will show up tubes that are leaking an abnormal amount of pressure due to slow leaks.

Temperature, topography and type of roads as well as driving habit of owners account for wide variations in mileage from identical tires. These factors may account for a tire turning in from twenty to twenty-five thousand miles of service in Chicago whereas from seven to eight thousand miles may be the mileage it will register in Texas.

FIELD REPRESENTATIVE

Bernard E. Whitt of West Liberty has kindly agreed to devote a part of his spare time to serving as field representative of the Courier in outlying sections of Morgan and adjoining counties.

Mr. Whitt, a native Morgan countian who has served many years as a teacher and as county superintendent of schools, and is at present connected with the NYA training program at West Liberty, needs no introduction to our readers.

With Mr. Whitt's help and your cooperation we hope to improve the interest and value of the Courier to our neighboring counties, as well as to Morgan. Mr. Whitt will accept subscription and advertising orders for the Courier and help to arrange for news reports from leading communities in Elliott, Wolfe, and Menifee counties.

The Courier invites your support for the betterment of a good newspaper—the only one printed in four counties.

"PRAY FOR VICTORY"

Mima, Ky., March 23, 1943

Editor Courier: As we all know, we are in this awful war. We have all got to band together to win the victory. Even Morgan county has some boys that are backing from Uncle Sam, going to defense plants. If all would go on and fight for their country, freedom would soon be ours. Even our American women could take the jobs the men are doing.

God is with our fighting men today. He is guiding our men safely. Our previous Bible tells us the righteous side will win. All the American boys' mothers are willingly praying for them, as many American boys have been killed already. But God knows that all can live and victory be won. So let us all join together and be as one and pray for victory.

GERTRUDE SMITH

WOULD FIND RELATIVES

West Brook, Texas, March 16, 1943

Editor Courier: I would like to have this letter printed in your paper, as my husband was born in that vicinity somewhere. I don't know what place. He is Luther Woodson Carpenter, the son of Frank Carpenter and Martha McGuire. He is now 54 years old, having been born in 1889. He is the grandson of Levi B. Carpenter and Sarah Ann Goodpaster, who lived there at the time of his (my husband's) birth. His mother, Martha McGuire, died when he was only about 3 years old, and she is buried there. His father married again, this time to Maggie Goodpaster. She was the daughter of Rube Goodpaster. Then, with his grandfather and families, they all came to Texas.

His father died when my husband was 10 years old, so his stepmother took her two small children and went back to Kentucky, and he has never seen the children since, but we know where they are. They were Willie and Frankie, and were raised up at Owingsville, Ky. My husband's uncle has some of your papers dated during Christmas time of 1942, and we see quite a few names of Carpenters and McGuires and Goodpasters, and we feel like most of them are our relatives, maybe distant relatives, but I think his mother might still have some brothers and sisters there, although we noticed where one of the brothers passed away about Dec. 7, Jesse Irvin McGuire, or at least we think he was her brother.

We also noticed in one of the papers where my husband's grandfather's brother's wife died—Mrs. Lou R. Christian Carpenter. We want to hear from any and all people there that know they are related to us, especially his mother's people, as we know hardly anything about them. We don't know her father's given name. We noticed a letter in one of the papers dated Jan. 7 from our aunt, Lennie Cecil Carpenter, of Fillmore, Calif.

I will close hoping you print this in order that we may find some of our relatives.

TOM OSBORNE

TELLS A STORY

29 Sears st., Dayton, O.

Editor Courier: I am a war worker working in a war plant at Dayton, Ohio, investing 15 percent of my income in war bonds.

A man I talked to wanted the war to last so he could pay for his car. He says he can't buy war bonds or stamps, as his payments are so great. I am reminded of a story and I hope he gets the point. A man died and when he got across to heaven whether he wanted to go to heaven or hell, "Well," he asked, "are there any automobiles in heaven?" He was told there were none, and instantly he decided that he would go where the automobiles were. The devil then asked him what kind of car he wanted. The most expensive make he could think of was mentioned, and the devil pointed to a new one sitting there all ready to go. Happily, the man rushed to it, and got in it, then he called to the devil, "where rain and snow?" I can't see any roads. The devil smiled and softly replied, "My friend, that is the hell of it. There aren't any roads."

A lot of these people who think of the cars and the things that this war money can buy may wake up and find that the luxuries they craved to be like the fool's car. They'll have the things but how will they use them in a Nazi dominated world?

Apple Scab

Losses from apple scab each year are probably greater than from any other disease or from any insect affecting apples. With considerable rain and snow, I can't see any roads. The devil smiled and softly replied, "My friend, that is the hell of it. There aren't any roads."

DON'T BURN FIELDS

Burning does not kill broom sedge, according to a Kentucky college of agriculture leaflet. After burning it comes back stronger than ever and crowds out valuable grasses. When lime and phosphate are applied to most soils, forage plants grow vigorously and drive out the sedge.

Mowing pastures before broom sedge has seeded helps get rid of this weed. Sedge also can be destroyed by turning it under with a heavy plow. Given sufficient time, it decays and improves the soil.

"Don't burn fields," says this leaflet. Burned pastures green up in the spring and temporarily fatten stock more quickly than pastures not burned off. However, during July and August cattle usually will be found grazing on pasture not burned, because the soil contains more moisture and therefore more plant food in the grasses.

The restrictions on gasoline and tires will make some citizens of West Liberty buy in West Liberty whether they want to or not.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER

By DR. B. JONES, Sr., Editor of B. JONES COLLEGE, Cincinnati, Ohio

"The Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for as we ought." This is a most comforting thought for a Christian. No real Christian feels very wise, "Big-head" and spiritual do not go together. Real Christians always are conscious of their intellectual limitations. We know not what to pray for as we ought. Some of us said that in our own hearts even before we knew it was in the Bible. We do not always know what is best under certain circumstances. The reason is, we do not know the future. But God does know the future. Sometimes we go to God in prayer not knowing what is best for us. The Holy Spirit helps our infirmities and, in some way we cannot humanly explain, we get the assurance that a certain thing is God's will.

There are some things about which we can be certain because we know what the Bible says about these things. We know it is God's will to give us wisdom because the Bible teaches that wisdom comes from God. If any man lacks wisdom, if he will ask God, God will give it to him. We know it is God's will to forgive sin, because the Bible says if we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins. There are many things about which the will of God is clearly revealed in the Bible. We, however, sometimes come to where the road parts. We cannot just decide which way to go. The road to the right in some ways seems to be the right way. Yet the road to the left also seems to be the right way. We cannot take both roads; so we talk to God. We commit everything to Him. Sometimes thru the voice of the Spirit speaking to our hearts, He reveals definitely which way we should go. Sometimes God shows us up, by circumstances over which we have no control, to be the roads which prove to be the right road. "The steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord."

It is not difficult to find out what is the right thing to do. If our supreme desire is to do the right thing, it is often very difficult to make what we are inclined to do harmonize with the will of God about what we should do. If every Christian could get on that high spiritual plane where he would want just one thing, and that the will of God, there would be no difficulties for the Christian in finding out what is right.

There is no such thing as an accident in the life of a sincere Christian. Satan could "slow down" Paul, for he said, "I would have come unto you but Satan hindered me." He hindered Paul, but he never stopped him. When Paul reached the end of his journey, he said, "I have finished the course." God did not let the devil stop Paul until Paul completed the task assigned him by his Heavenly Father. God will not let wicked men and demons combined in a hellish conspiracy stop the humblest child of God from the carrying out of God's purpose in his life if that child of God is uncompromisingly, unconditionally, and absolutely surrendered to God.

Nothing can interfere with God's purpose for our lives except our own stubborn wills and our own selfish hearts. God knows what He wants us to do and God has the power to see us thru. The trouble is when we come to a crisis most of us, instead of asking God what He would have us do, begin to try to pull God over on our side and get His help to do what we are inclined to do. Instead of walking with God, as Ench walked with Him, we try to get God to walk with us. Our business is to go God's way, not try to get God to go our way. If such is our heart purpose in life, then we need not be concerned about doing the right thing. We do not always know how to pray as we ought, but the Spirit will make intercessions for us. The Spirit will help our infirmities.

GROWING HEMP

Here are some of the things the Kentucky college of agriculture and home economics says farmers learned about growing seed hemp last year: Hemp for seed may be planted as late as June 1, or even later. April 10 is about as early as it should be planted.

Much seed hemp was planted too close last year. On rich bottom land the hills probably should be 5 to 6 feet each way, and on upland 4 to 5 feet.

Seed hemp should be thinned to 2 to 3 plants on bottom land and 3 to 4 plants on upland. In many instances last season, too many plants were left. This interfered with branch growth and reduced seed production.

Cutworms, grasshoppers, and groundhogs eat hemp. Be prepared to scatter poisoned bran mash in the hemp field.

W.M.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Lee and Cole Cody, headstudies under two identical wills made by Early Bill Cole, arrived in Bald Eagle by stage coach, only to learn of Bill Cole's death a few days previously. Ann, accompanied by Aunt Jennifer, went out to Old Bill's ranch the following day and was greeted by Rance Waldron, who, posing as Old Bill's nephew, made it evident they were not welcome at the Ranch. While Ann Lee was making it just as plain she had no intention of leaving, Cole Cody arrived. Ann and Cole had a misunderstanding during the journey to Bald Eagle and she was not pleased to see him at the Ranch. In fact, she ordered him out.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IX

"You're not a very good shot, are you?" said Cole Cody, lazy once slow-spoken and impudent. Even his eyebrows mocked Ann.

"I could shoot your toenails off and never blister your feet," she told him.

"Then why only mess me up like this, making it hurt like seven kinds of hell and at the same time do me no more harm than a hot stove lid dropped on your toe?"

"It's that darned gun of Calhoun's! It does its own shooting when it feels like it. You try it sometime, smarty!"

"Trying to apologize? Meaning you didn't go to do it?" He was still looking at her. Maybe it was just as well then that Cal had retrieved his gun and taken it off with him.

"Mr. Cody," said Ann, very prim and very polite, "I am sorry, in a way, that I shot you. You see—"

"In a way? That's nice! What way?" snapped young Cody.

"There is such a thing as being humane, or anyhow human," said Ann. "You know very well that you are not welcome here. What's the use pretending? You and I don't like each other—for my part," she exploded, "I hate the sight of you! Get well as soon as you can—and go somewhere else. So, what I mean by being sorry I shot you, it's just that if you weren't all shot up you could be on your way right now."

He slid out of his chair, the tight bandage about his midriff irking him, and stood up.

"I'm here to stay," he told her flatly. "I didn't come here following you, either. If I'd known you were here, maybe I couldn't have come at all. And, not meaning to be tough with you, just the same I can ask you what the devil you are doing here anyhow? At my place."

"Your place? Why, you—"

"We sort of find it natural to call each other 'You' and then gulp and stop, don't we?" he said.

"Your place! What on earth are you talking about? Have you gone crazy? Oh, maybe you always were crazy! Of course, that's it! That explains everything!"

"Listen, and don't be so smart. You're kind of pretty, and maybe it's gone to your head. Men, I guess, seeing you at a dance, all dolled up, have told you a lot of lies, and you think you're Cleopatra, maybe, or the Queen of Sheba. Whoa! Didn't I say wait a minute? I'm answering questions right now; you say what do I mean by saying this is my place. Well, that's what it is, or anyhow going to be. Me, I'm old Early Bill Cole's heir. This is the King Cole Ranch, and it's mine."

"Why, you—you—"

"I've told you I'm getting tired of our calling each other 'You-you's'. Where's your originality?"

"You—liar! You're worse than that man Rance Waldron. He says it's his place too—and it's mine! Now, Mr. Cody, will you—Will you tuck your shirt tail in, and go climb a tree?"

What Mr. Cody did was scratch his head, thick-thatched with abundant dark red hair, and hold his peace a moment and do a bit of thinking, staring at her all the while. He told himself that this was a sort of funny lay-out, his running into this obnoxious girl so consistently for one thing, her making a claim like that for another, the letter from old Early Bill Cole for the first of all in a chain of events that—No chain at all, just a crazy quilt of a thing!

Pondering, he did tuck his shirt tail in. Also he produced the makings of a cigarette and very slowly, his mind on other matters, he builded his cigarette. And in due course, lighted it. He inhaled deeply; he sent a stream of bluish smoke ceilingward.

"It's still reasonably early in the morning," he said after he had driven her frantic with his leisuredness. "You've got lots of time to comb your hair and wash your face—Go look in a looking glass, and you'll do both!—and get into Bald Eagle before noon. If the stage doesn't go where you want it to go today, it'll be pretty sure to go tomorrow. So you've got time to listen while I tell you something. Mr. Early Bill Cole, rest his wild soul, Early Bill being dead now, made up his mind he wanted the right sort of man to take care of the things he had to leave behind him on taking the long, one-way trip. He nominated me for the job. He even took time to write out a will. He left every damn thing he had to William Cole Cody. And that's me. Do you begin to get the general idea?"

"When I was a very little girl," she told him sweetly, "I used to say that I hated things. Castor oil was one, and there were others. But, dear me, I didn't know what I was talking about. For only now, Mr. Cody, I do know now what the word 'hate' means. Need I go further? Of course not. Now, suppose you tell me what, if anything at all, you are driving at? Someone has told you, no doubt, that Mr. Early Bill Cole willed everything he had to me?"

Cole Cody had a way of exhaling cigarette smoke that, she was dead sure, could infuriate anyone on earth. He did some exhaling. Her nails bit into her pink palms. But, spiteful-like, she clenched her teeth and waited.

Outside, in the patio, Rance Waldron had stopped at the side of a window, listening, one would have judged, so still and attentive had he become, that he was far and away more than merely casually interested. At least so deemed Aunt Jennifer, spying on him from a kitchen corner!

At last Ann spoke up, and very quietly, considering who it was speaking.

"Mr. Early Bill Cole," she said, spacing her words nicely, "was a gentleman and a very fine man. He was a friend of my father's. He knew that he had to die. So he made his will. It's quite too bad, Mr. Cody, to disappoint you, but Mr. Cole left everything he had—to me. Yes, that's what I said. He made a will to that effect—and—"

With Ann watching his slightest move, he shot the key home.

I've got that will! Now—Will you get well and go!

He moved over to the table, feeling a trifle unsteady and blurry in the head, and set on the table's edge, one foot swinging.

"We'll soon find out about all this," he said. "I've got a key—a key old Early Bill sent me—"

"A key! You've got a key! What sort of key?"

"A key that's made to unlock something," he snorted at her. "What do you suppose, asking what sort of key? Now, when I find what it's to unlock—There's an old devil in town they call the Judge—He's crazy as a bed-bug, no question. But he knows a lot of things. Between him and another crazy old coot name of Doc Joe—"

"Doc Joe isn't a crazy old coot! He's a dear! But—Where did you say you got your key?"

"Forget that I've told you as much as I have! Are you and I old friends who tell each other all our hearts' secrets? Are we—"

"Shut up! You talk so damned much and say so little—you make me mad! Tell me about your key. Did Early Bill—You say that he sent it to you?"

"Well, what if he did? Maybe you've got the lock it fits! Let's laugh!"

"Maybe I have! And if you've got the other key, I'll show you! I'll show you who owns the King Cole Ranch and all that goes with it! Where's your precious key, Mr. Cole Cody?"

"Where's your lock for it to fit?" he shot back at her, and grinned his most malicious grin.

Suddenly they were aware of Aunt Jennifer in the doorway, clearing her throat to a warning "Ahem!" Her eyes drifted sideways toward the window, and managed to jerk their attention in that direction, whereupon Rance Waldron made the best of the situation, tapping on the pane, calling to them.

"What's going on in there? I thought you two, after the lady had popped a bullet into the gent, would have had enough of each other. Mind if I drop in and join in the powder?"

He moved away from his vantage point, and a moment later the doorway framed him. He stopped there, studying them.

"I don't think I know you very well," said Cody. "Do you happen to be one of my guests?"

"We met just now," Rance reminded him, cool and insolent, as was his fashion. He pinched his chin, looking reflective. "Guests, you said, didn't you? Whose guests, I can't but ask. You mean I'm your guest or you're my guest or—Just what did you have in mind?"

Cole Cody, drained of his strength as he was, felt a strong urge to better all the smug insolence off the man's handsome face. As a matter of fact he experienced an all but overwhelming desire to spoil Mr. Rance Waldron's manly profile for all time.

"It's like this," said Cole Cody, very slow-spoken. When he spoke at all, he was generally saying one thing and thinking far afield; right now he was regarding Rance Waldron's empurpled nose and dallying with the thought of taking even more painstaking care of that nose when opportunity afforded. "You heard part of what was said; I guess out there at the window, you didn't miss a word. So suppose we go on from there. I don't know who you are—"

"Why not get straightened out at the start?" said Rance Waldron reasonably. "Me, I'm Rance Waldron and just blew in here a few days ago. As far as I know, or anyone else seems to know, I'm next of kin to that rare old bird, Early Bill Cole. I had me a hunch that he kicked off without making any will at all, and in spite of the several mentions of wills that I've heard since, I'm still of that notion. If I happen to be right—Well, then, this outfit, lock, stock and barrel, belongs to me! Got all that, Mr. Cody?"

"That's quite a speech," conceded Cody, nodding approvingly. "Yep, I got it. Only it's my bet you're out on a limb. Here are the three of us, you and Miss Lee and me, all putting in our claims. He made a very face, then wiped it away with the heel of his hand. "Like so many turkey buzzards sitting on a fence! It makes me sort of sick at my stomach. I got a notion to high-tail out of here and let you folks fight over a dead man's boots!"

"Scat!" cried Ann Lee. "You're overdue some other place!"

"No, I'm sticking until I get things straight. Why old Early Bill Cole should make me his heir, I don't know and can't guess. But he might have had his reasons. I never knew him, I never even saw him. But one thing sticks out like a sore thumb: His name was Cole, and I'm Cole Cody! How's that happen? Must be that we're related, or something—"

He reached into his pocket, groped a minute and dug up a small, flat key—and did little Ann Lee's eyes all but start from their sockets!

"There!" said young Cody.

"There's the key to the mystery, as the feller says—Maybe! Who'll bring me a lock for my key?"

Ann Lee had a way, all her own, of getting from the place where she was to the place where she wished to be, that was like nothing else on earth.

And with her cherished carpet-bag clutched tight. She got it open, she ran a hurrying hand down into it, she plucked out an old, black iron box. An iron box with two locks, as anyone might see.

"If your key fits one of these locks—This one! Try it!"

Cole Cody chose to drive her wild. He tossed his key ceilingward, caught it and played with it, and he laughed at her.

"So that's it, is it?" he jeered at her. "A strong box with two locks, and you've got a key for one, and are going clean crazy like Pandora and Blue Beard's wife, trying to burglarize it! And no can do—without the other key! Mine! Well," and he never spoke more drawingly, "there's no hurry, is there? How about waiting until tomorrow? Maybe it might be best to wait until my wound heals over! That's an idea!"

And he tossed his key again, caught it and shoved it back into his pocket. And he could have sworn that he heard Aunt Jennifer giggle!

Ann Lee opened her hand and showed him a key very much like his own. She tossed it up, just as he had done, and caught it; she held it between her thumb and finger—and sneered at him. And how little Ann Lee, when she put her mind to it, could sneer!

Ann set the box down hastily, and shot her key into the proper lock. When the mechanism gave its satisfied responsive click, she looked up at him triumphantly. Little Ann Lee could crow a lot of things into one swift glance: I've done it! Mister! How about you? Just four-fushing!

Cole Cody wondered, himself. Well, here was the time to find out about things. With Ann watching his slightest move, as though she suspected him of being able to accomplish any weird sort of sleight-of-hand, not trusting him; with both the lively Aunt Jennifer and the sardonic Rance Waldron pressing close, he shot the key home.

It fitted the lock.

PETER AND JOHN BECOME DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:29-42; Mark 1:16-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Personal faith in Christ is the heart of Christian experience. Since persons are won by other persons it was vitally important that the Lord choose the right disciples at the very beginning of the Church. Outstanding among the twelve disciples were Peter and John, whose lives and letters we study during the next three months.

The manner in which they became disciples is of unusual interest—and is instructive as well. We will observe that our Lord is working in much the same way on the Peters and Johns of our own day. They came to Him by way of

I. Testimony—They Heard About Jesus (John 1:29-34, 41).

John, who modestly refrains from naming himself (v. 40), heard about Jesus from John the Baptist. His testimony is notable for its pointed presentation of Christ, and its unmistakable desire that they follow Him. John was an important man with a vigorous message, but he recognized that his only real business for God was to point men to Christ. He enjoyed having men follow him, but only that he might lead them to Jesus.

In doing Christian work we should learn so to bear our testimony that we may magnify Christ, and not ourselves. We must be careful to win men to Christ, and not to ourselves or our cause or church.

Peter was brought to Jesus by his brother Andrew. Andrew was a quiet, modest man of whom we do not read that he preached a single sermon. But he did do personal work (see John 6:8, 9; 12:21, 22). He has been called "Andrew the finder." May "his tribe" increase. We need more like him.

Learning about Jesus is not enough. There must be the next step, the indispensable personal meeting with the Lord.

II. Experience—They Saw Jesus (John 1:35-39, 42).

The necessity of a personal experience with Christ is so clearly stated in Scripture that one can only marvel that it is so neglected in many churches today.

Neither John the Baptist nor, later, Andrew was content to tell about Jesus. They brought John and Peter to the Lord. John said, "Behold the Lamb of God" (v. 36); and Andrew "brought him to Jesus" (v. 42). These sum up the soul-winner's duty. We must bring our family, our friends, yes, the stranger with whom we deal, into the presence of Jesus.

He will look into their eyes and into their souls and see in them all the gifts and graces which may make them useful to Him (v. 42). John was the brother of James and Peter the brother of Andrew—just two humble fishermen in the sight of men. But Jesus saw in them two of the most useful men who have ever lived. Let us give Him a chance to deal with our friends and acquaintances.

Hearing and seeing are both excellent, but they lack one final step—and here it is—

III. Action—They Followed Jesus (John 1:40; Mark 1:16-20).

First of all they followed Jesus in becoming believers on Him as the Messiah. That experience of John's we find in John 1:40, and of Peter's (by inference) in verse 42. There is no salvation apart from that act of the will which follows a knowledge of Christ.

In the passage in Mark we find Him calling them to leave their secular calling as fishers of fish to follow Him and become fishers of men. Before they could become what He wanted them to be, they had to do something—rise up and follow Him.

Their unquestioning response indicated their faith, but, more than that, it showed that they were the kind of obedient men who could be used of the Lord. Jesus might have called His disciples from the learned and the mighty. But one wonders whether they would have been willing to respond without argument, and to learn of Him without prejudice or preconceived ideas of theology.

God must often pass the mighty and the noble of this world, and call those who are foolish enough to believe Him and obey (read I Cor. 1:17-29). The reason is given there—"That no flesh should glory in his presence." The glory belongs to the Lord, not to His servants.

Because they did obey, they became "fishers of men." He led them, trained them, encouraged them, blessed them, and used them.

A disciple is a "learner," but he is learning for a purpose. Learning for its own sake, as an ornament or a selfish pleasure, is always a sad thing, but with the disciple of Christ it cannot be that if he rightly knows Christ.

The disciple is to win other disciples. That is the very heart of Christian witness.

BARE DETAILS

Church service was over, and three of the congregation walked home together, discussing the message they had heard.

"I tell you," said the first, enthusiastically, "Dr. Blank can certainly dive deeper into the truth than any minister I ever heard!"

"Yes," said the second man, "and he can stay under longer."

"Yes," echoed the third, "and come up drier."

On Her Last Legs

What's in a name? We'll let you guess!

Tilly—How do you feel now?

Lilly—Terrible; I feel as if I was going to die.

Tilly—You can't die in here; this is the living room.

Preliminary

Young Reporter—And are you really going to retire from the stage?

Actress—Oh, no. This is merely a farewell tour.

BROADLY SPEAKING

Jones—Have you seen our friend Lem lately?

Smith—No, I haven't seen him for several days. What's wrong with him?

Jones—He's gotten terribly thin. I'm worried about him.

Smith—That's nothing. Why, I'm thin myself.

Jones—Yes, you're thin and I'm thin, too. But Lem is thinner than both of us put together.

EASY JOB

"They say man is descended from us,"

"Maybe that's why it's so easy for any woman to make a monkey of a man."

WOMAN'S WRATH

A youngster, very much out of breath, rushed into a police station.

"You're wanted—down—our street—and bring an ambulance," he gasped to an officer.

"What's the trouble?" demanded the officer. "And why the ambulance?"

"Because," explained the youngster, "when he had recovered his breath, 'mother' discovered the woman who stole our door-mat!"

Not So Surprising

Like we said, it all depends on your point of view.

Mr. Jones—And I saw him treating his wife in a way I wouldn't treat a dog.

Mrs. Jones—Oh, my dear! What was he doing to her?

Mr. Jones—He was kissing her.

Smells Mad

Henry—I suppose you were pretty mad when you stumbled over that skunk.

Harry—Mad. I was highly incensed.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Egg Slices Ring Around Lima Bean Casserole (See Recipes Below)

Nutritious Dishes

Are you struggling with the problems of planning meals with rationing or depleted stocks of food? Do you get late to market some days and find you can't find what you wanted? Then, today's recipes and suggestions will be of real help to you—for these times are real problems for every homemaker.

Now that you are shopping not only with a budget but also with a point budget, you must plan carefully so as not to use all the precious points before your month is up. Use as many unrationed foods as possible, and budget those points carefully which you have to use. Never lose sight of nutrition qualities however, for your body must be properly fed to do its work.

Lima beans, rich source of vegetable protein, thiamin and riboflavin make an excellent meat extender. With three eggs and careful seasoning, it will have an unmistakable appeal—and plenty of hearty satisfaction.

Lima Beans California. (Serves 6)

2 cups dried limas
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup hot water
2 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
1 egg beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice

To cook dried lima beans, soak in cold water 4 to 5 hours or overnight. Before dinner, cook in same water 20 minutes, add salt and cook 20 minutes longer or until beans are tender.

Cream butter, add salt, pepper, parsley, lemon juice, and beaten egg. Mix well, then pour over limas and cook in double boiler until creamy. Turn into a hot vegetable dish and arrange hard-cooked eggs over top and sprinkle finely chopped parsley in a border around dish.

Plump limas combined with another good protein food, cheese, in this dish, meet the requirements of a good main dish:

Lima Bean Cheese Loaf. (Serves 6)

2 cups cooked, dried lima beans, pureed
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1/2 cup onion, minced
1/2 cup ham, ground
2 tablespoons parsley, minced
1/2 cup American cheese, shredded
1/4 cup milk

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: When you plan meals these days, do it with ration book in hand. Remember, you're spending not only money but points and that requires extra keeping of accounts.

Plan meals in advance keeping in mind what you need and what points you can use to best advantage with it. Don't squander points. If, for example, you have an eight-point coupon, and need something valued at six points, try not to use the eight-point coupon except with anything which corresponds with it.

Since canned and packaged goods will be at a premium, plan those menus carefully. Don't do without fruits and vegetables if the coupons are used up—have plenty of fresh, unrationed ones on hand.

This Week's Menu

- *Lima Bean Cheese Loaf
- Orange-Apple Salad
- Oatmeal Refrigerator Rolls
- Snow Pudding
- Custard Sauce
- Beverage

*Recipe Given

2 tablespoons chili sauce
1/2 cup meat stock

One cup of dried lima beans makes about 3 cups when cooked. Soak them overnight in cold water, then cook for 20 minutes, add salt and cook 10 to 20 minutes more until tender. To puree lima beans, put through a sieve.

Brown onion and green pepper in butter. Blend all ingredients except stock together thoroughly. Pack into a well-oiled loaf tin. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 50 minutes. Baste frequently with stock.

An excellent tomato sauce to serve with this loaf can be made by sauteing 2 tablespoons minced onion and 2 tablespoons chopped celery in 2 tablespoons butter.

Add to this 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 can tomato soup. Simmer 10 minutes, strain, and serve with loaf.

Several times recently when I have visited the butcher, he has offered me pork tenderloin. This is an excellent tasting meat—very rich in vitamin B1 or thiamin, which prevents nervousness, restlessness, listlessness and tiredness.

Breaded Pork Tenderloin. (Serves 4)

1 pound pork tenderloin
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1 egg
2 tablespoons water or milk
Meat drippings

Cut tenderloin into 2-inch sections. Flatten. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in crumbs, slightly beaten egg, diluted, and again in crumbs. Let stand in refrigerator 15 minutes. Brown on both sides on hot drippings. Cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes.

An unrestricted meat is tongue—you don't have to carry a ration book to get it at your butcher's. Learn how to cook it, and you will really discover a culinary delight for your family:

Tongue With Carrots in Spinaach. (Serves 4)

1 fresh beef tongue
Water
2 teaspoons salt
3 1/2 cups cooked spinaach
2 cups cooked, diced carrots

Cover tongue with water and add salt. Cover. Allow to simmer 1 hour to each pound of tongue, or until tongue is tender. Remove from water and skin. Serve hot, sliced. Arrange nests of spinaach and carrots on platter around tongue.

Telling time in the Navy is on the 24-hour system. Morning hours are from one to twelve, but afternoon hours are from 1300 to 2400 (midnight). So if you ask a sailor the time and he says "seventeen," subtract 12 and you get five o'clock in the afternoon. It's simpler if you ask him what cigarette he smokes. Chances are he'll say: "Camel," for Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as well as among men in the Army, Marines, Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) Local dealers are featuring Camel cartons as gifts for men in the service from the folks back home.—Adv.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, itching or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, rheumatism, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.
